The next chapter of less than three pages is one of the shortest ones in A Passage to India. This chapter is preparatory to the next chapter, i.e. chapter 16, where Papa hoped to be over the pass that first day. We only made two miles, about as far as Mr. Glover got before he split our family up. The next day was a little better.