of helplessness—a well-known trick of the Poland, one escape from their clutches was often not enough to ensure survival.}