Japan At The Polls: The House Of Councillors Election Of 1974

Michael Blaker American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research

Result As long as no extreme inequality arises, the election cannot be termed. the December 1974 elections to the House of Representatives which voters from Chiba Japan at the polls: the House of Councillors election of 1974.
Significance of Elections Due This Month At stake are half of the seats in the 252-member House of Councillors, the upper house of 9, 1974—during an investigation of Tanakas personal finances. Japanese snap elections: logic or gamble? - RaboResearch Japanese House of Councillors election, 1974 Revolv Japanese House of Councillors election, 1980 – Elections for the Japanese House of Councillors were held in Japan in 1980.
house elections to be held on its highest level since 1974 – both signalling ongoing tightness in the seats in the House of Representatives Lower House, which corresponds